LITTLE SENTIMENT SHOWN IN BASEBALL

Baseball defeats have shattered the reputation of many great players. When Catcher John Kling remained idle last year, the Cubs' followers raised such a row that the national commission restored him to good standing, and the Chicago club yielded to his salary demands. With Kling behind the bat this year and the Cubs winning the pennant, Chicago fans were satisfied that the return of the star catcher made Chance's men successful. Upon Kling was pinned the Chicago fans' faith in the world's series, but when the once great catcher failed to stop base-runners, and also displayel pitiful weakness with the bat, it was quickly shown that there's no sentiment in baseball. Kling was scored unmercifully, and was compelled to give way to his young understudy, Archer, who will probably be the Cubs' star backstop next year, with Kling his substitute.

TRIO OF JOCKEYS

George E. Eckendorf, son of Juarez, Dec. 23.-Immediately after the unning of the last race to-day, Presiding Steward Price announced that three jockeys, S. Smith, Manders, and Rettig have been indefinitely suspended. The ride put up by Smith yesterday or Gladys Louise, the even-money favorite the baseball team when he first was very unsatisfactory, and an investigation followed, with the result that Smith was caught with the goods. He was offered $200 by Jockey Manders to keep the favorite from winning, and succeeded very nicely. Manders went along with Smith. Jockey Rettig was given the gate because he had accepted $75 from a person not connected with the stable for winning a race. The summaries:
